JACOB STONE DIES AFTER BRIEF ILLNESS

MINER BROUGHT BACK TO TONOPAH FROM SCHURZ FOR BURIAL TOMORROW

Jacob Stone, a miner well known in this city, who for some time had been employed under Superintendent E. J. Haug at the Yerington Mountain Copper mine near Schurz, died Thursday night at 8 o'clock. The body was brought to Tonopah this morning, accompanied by Gus Carlson.

The deceased had been ill only two days. His death was due to intestinal obstruction. He was aged 45 years and was a native of Norway. At one time he was a member of the I. O. O. F., but it is not learned if he is still in good standing. He has a brother, but he has not yet been located.

The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from Wona-cott & Cavanaugh's undertaking parlors. Services will be conducted by Rev. R. W. Bayless. The interment will be in the Tonopah cemetery.

RETURNS FROM A MOST SAD ERRAND

Wenzel J. Stock, member of the firm of Stock & Barnes, arrived this morning from Silver City, where he was called on January 9th by the illness of his mother, Mrs. Barbara Stock. He arrived in the nick of time as she passed away the following day.

Mr. and Mrs. Stock were among the oldest residents of Silver City, having made it their home for half a century. They were identified with business and mining interests and were prominent in fraternal and social affairs, making friends everywhere and having not a single enemy. They have seven children and this was the first death in the family.

Mr. W. J. Stock, Sr., is in a very feeble condition, due to the death of his lifelong helpmate, and due to his extreme age, 86 years. Mr. Stock expects to be summoned at any moment to his bedside. Mr. Stock, Sr., is one of the oldest Masons in Nevada.

DOG MUZZLING ORDINANCE

The ordinances requiring the muzzling of all dogs will go into effect in the county on February 1 and in the city on February 10. Already there has been a lively demand for muzzles by owners of canines who wish them to escape the alternative of being shot on the streets.

SAME OLD STORY IN M'FRANQUELIN CASE

CORONA AVENUE CLOSING SEEMS TO BE AS FAR AWAY AS IT EVER WAS

For the fourth time Dollie McFranklin was arrested in the matter of closing Corona avenue and for the fourth time she has been convicted in the township court, and three times she has been turned loose in the district court when it was found that a cat could be swung by the tail and thrown either through the ordinance or the complaint.

This afternoon she received from the justice the usual $25 fine and took the usual appeal to the higher court. The case is proving a very expensive one through the comedy of errors that has been enacted.

DOGS SERVE THEIR MASTERS TILL DEATH

BODIES OF VALOROUS CANINES ARE FOUND AT THE FRONT OF BATTLE LINE

By Associated Press.

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands, Jan. 21.—In "no man's land," the fire-swept zone between the trenches, one may occasionally find, among the mass of human and material debris, dead dogs which, in the opinion of many, are deserving of the cross for valor equally with their human friends. On both sides, dogs have been largely employed in locating and succoring the wounded, and many touching stories of canine devotion and sagacity are told and remembered with gratitude by those who must have miserably perished but for the trained Red Cross dog.

Different countries have adopted different modes of training the animals. One was to teach a dog to lie down beside a wounded man and bark until assistance came. Another, to train a dog to return half way to his master and attract attention by a short sharp bark, and yet another to teach the animal to pick up some object belonging to the soldier, carry it back to his master and guide the latter to the spot where the man lies awaiting help.

The first method has been found to be the quickest in practice, but at the same time the most dangerous, inasmuch as the noise is apt to attract the notice of the enemy, and may even at times give him useful information. The second method was based on the idea that it would save time if the dog could be made to produce tangible evidence that he had really found a wounded man, but it had to be abandoned because the animal, in his unreasoning eagerness to procure the evidence, would sometimes badly maul a helpless man and often tear off a temporary bandage, thus endangering the life of the person whom the dog had set out to serve.

The silent method is the only one that has been found really satisfactory, and this is now universally followed, although, on dark nights and when there is rough ground to be covered, certain obvious drawbacks present themselves.

BUTLER THEATER

A very interesting picture will be seen at the Butler this evening. It is a thrilling drama of war and romance in six reels, written by H. C. Chatfield-Taylor, author of international reputation. Society leaders of national prominence appear in scenes at homes of Chicago's wealthiest people. E. H. Calvert, a West Point man, who has seen fourteen years service in the U. S. army, leads and directs the play.

Genuine battle scenes appear in this picture. Several scenes actually taken on the present battle fields of Europe are used. A huge Zeppelin, fully prepared to go into action, makes an ascension, while other scenes show troops advancing under heavy fire. One scene shows a squad of artillerymen placing a machine gun into position; then show the rapidity with which one of these death-dealing devices can be put into action. The camera man who took this scene did so at hazardous risk, as it was taken on the firing line of the western battle front. Many prominent people are seen in this picture. The preliminary reel will be a Charlie Chaplin comedy which will make all the little folks laugh, and some of the big ones.

Tomorrow, a Paramount production, featuring Hazel Dawn as "Clarissa" in "Gambler's Advocate," a thrilling, dramatic romance. Miss Dawn is aided by an exceptionally well chosen cast, among whom are James Kirkwood, who will be remembered as playing opposite Mary Pickford in "Behind the Scenes," Dorothy Bernard, who was featured with William Farnum in the Fox picture which was shown here yesterday, Fuller Mellish, Maude Odell and others.
